Each description should include, as a minimum, the following: (a) a detailed description of the activity including its purpose and how each activity furthers your exempt purpose; (b) when the activity was or will be initiated; and (c) where and by whom the activity will be conducted.

Education.

The organization provides training through conferences and workshops to assist those in the aviation management industry to better administer and manage their facilities. An annual 3-day conference is held during the third week in September in which educational and training programs are provided. The organization is planning on hosting additional seminars and workshops for specific training programs, such as "Understanding Airport Land Use Requirements" or "Airport Environmental Assessments," as some examples that may be provided in the future. At the current time, only the annual conference is provided to the corporation members and others in the aviation industry. The organization also disseminates aeronautical information to members on various topics related to the current aviation regulations, rules, and laws.

Advocacy.

The organization actively seeks solutions to industry issues and problems and works with legislative representatives to understand those issues and determinate how to seek support and recognition to solve those areas of concern. Through these efforts, the organization participates in the state legislative process, monitors legislation activity, and supports or opposes legislation that impacts aviation and airports. The organization is considering holding a reception or open house in the coming year for decision makers and state legislators as a meet and greet so that both sides gets to know each others goals and needs.

Marketing.

The organization seeks to increase the awareness of the organization and its goals and objectives. The organization has created a website at www.calairports.com and also uses that resource to keep members aware of new programs, policies, and issues. It also markets the annual conference and would be used to market any other workshops or training opportunities the organization may develop in the future. The organization has a membership brochure that it uses to market to the aviation industry through direct mailouts and at various aviation activities that others may present.

Partnership Building

The organization continually works to improve its aviation alliances. It works closely with other similar organizations such as the National Business Aviation Association (NBAA), California Pilots Association (CPA), Aircraft Owner's & Pilots Association (AOPA), California Association for Local Economic Development (CALED), and others.

Assistance and Communication.

The organization assists its members in areas of common problems so that no one has to "reinvent the wheel" and operations can be managed on a comparable basis. The organization provides common documentation samples, such as leases, permits, local regulations, and rules to those members wanting to develop or improve their own documentation and to be consist with others in the industry.

The organization has created a Strategic Plan.
